

Mardi Gras Gets Underway in Spite of Cold

NEW ORLEANS (UP) — Mardi Gras revelers, too proud to wear topcoats over their gay costumes, sallied forth today.

"We worked for months and planned long winter underwear and how we have to put the floats in moth balls for a year," said one disgruntled participant Friday night after the traditional Hermes Parade was rained out. But hundreds danced through the night at the Hermes Ball, and despite unprecedented cold and rainy weather, the Mardi Gras spirit went on.

It was reported that even the King of Momus, anonymous ruler over the week's events, had long underwear beneath his glittering robes of state.

Groggily celebrants watched the skies at dawn today to see if the busiest day yet in the madcap week would come off as scheduled. Ten parades were on tap, including two torchlight affairs at night.

Friday night the activity was all indoors. The streets were deserted.

Gay bunting and streamers sagged in the rain.

But even here there was hope: The decorations had been water-proofed for a quick recovery.

The rain let up by morning and the tentative prediction was for fair skies.

Lights in the early morning gave an eerie glow to the gleaming wet crown heads erected on Canal Street. The empty reviewing stands stood out, lonely on the empty streets.

The only people afoot Friday night seemed to be hurrying to private parties or the Hermes Ball. It appeared that no one was going about everyday business. Parade or no parade, it was still Mardi Gras week.

The Hermes parade was the second major event to succumb to the elements. On Wednesday a parade was called off because of snow—possibly for the first time in New Orleans' Mardi Gras history.

Tunisia Acts to Put France in Tight Spot

By WALTER LUGAN

United Press Staff Correspondent
Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba demanded again today that France remove its troops from Tunisia. He said he would turn the nation into an army of guerrilla fighters to drive them out if necessary.

Bourguiba, speaking from Tunis on his weekly radio report to the nation, warned the French that he would reply with force to any attacks by the French on his own troops.

He said he was willing to resume negotiations with France but not until all French forces are removed from Tunisia. And he said he and the entire nation were willing to go underground to get rid of them.

Bourguiba spoke as tension steadily mounted in Tunisia and as France began diplomatic overtures to halt the pressure Bourguiba has been able to apply through favorable world opinion.

Asks to Renew Talks

One report from Tunis said France delivered a formal note to Tunisia this morning offering to resume the discussions interrupted by the French bombing of Sakiel-Sidi Yousef on Saturday.

France's action in Tunisia came under discussion today at the Paris meeting of the NATO permanent council for the second straight day.

Count Etienne de Croucy-Chanet, French delegate to the council, told the NATO group of the note reported to ask resumption of talks on a "treaty of common defense" providing for the withdrawal of French troops.

Tunisian troops armed with rifles and a machine gun took up positions at the entrance of the channel leading to the Bizerte base where about 10,000 French troops have been isolated since Sunday from their wives and families.

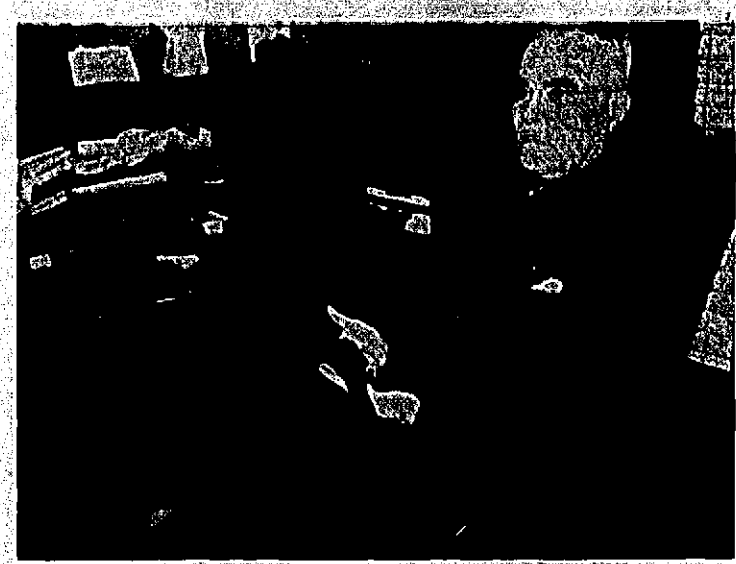

Tunisia has demanded the withdrawal of all the 20,000 to 25,000 French troops in the former French protectorate as the price of renewed Franco-Tunisian friendship.

The assembly gave Galliard a vote of confidence Wednesday afternoon, concluding that France bombed the Tunisian village to wipe out a nest of rebels who had taken refuge in Tunisia.

Local Man Has Gun Collection

Carl Roberts at his desk.

Fine Rifles in his collection.

By Mary Anita Laseter

Members of the junior rifle club, which is sponsored by the Parks and Recreation Commission, often go to 219 S. Shaver St. in Hope to see the fine gun collection of Carl Roberts, the first chief instructor of the club.

As a certified rifle marksman instructor in the National Rifle Assoc. (NRA), Mr. Roberts is well qualified to serve in his job as supervisor of marksmanship in the junior rifle club.

Care and caution are two things which always stresses to any user of firearms because the "unloaded" gun is always the one that accidentally discharges. He was trained to take precautions in an NRA Hunter Safety Course.

Besides acquiring a fine gun collection over a period of years, Mr. Roberts has also acquired extensive knowledge of the mechanism of firearms. He is one of several whose research and experiments led to the development of the six mm. cartridge.

The holder of an explosive license with an inspector-analyst-investigator-educator rating this local gun collector is also a licensed gunsmith with a shop in his backyard in which he does his own repairing, refinishing, checkering, bluing, etc.

After working for the Post Office Department over 50 years, Mr. Roberts was retired two years ago. He had been the Postmaster at Guernsey, but when that post office was closed, he was transferred to Hope.

In the 37 years at the local post office, he maintained a constant interest in the study and the collection of his hobby. He became Assistant State Secretary of the NRA in 1916. Today, he is President of the Hempstead Rifle and Pistol Club.

"The most prized gun in my collection," Carl Roberts told me, "is this L. C. Smith."

He pointed to a shotgun with beautiful "English" wood and Teutonic relief work on it. "As a boy, I often admired such a gun," he said.

U. S. Working on Theronuclear Power Source

COLUMBIA, Mo. (UP) — The U. S. is working on something "infinitely better than Sputnik thermonuclear energy," a speaker said last night.

Dr. Charles W. Schilling, director of biology and medicine for the Atomic Energy Commission, told a press seminar that "if we don't get thermonuclear power first it won't be because we're not trying. It takes a lot of basic research."

Schilling was one of several speakers at an Atomic Energy Seminar being held yesterday and today to mark the 50th anniversary of the Missouri University School of Journalism.

Schilling said that at present there is no treatment for radiation injuries although injecting marrow into the blood offers a possibility.

Research has moved from mice to monkeys, but we're still putting the pieces of knowledge together before trying it on humans," Schilling said. He said any amount of radiation is liable to cause changes in genes.

The seminar is sponsored jointly by the Journalism School, Missouri Press Association and the Argonne National Laboratory of Chicago.

Schilling said there is a constant check of fallout, disposal of atomic wastes and effects of radiation on environment in the U. S.

Says Plan to Give Farmers '4 Freedoms'

DES MOINES (UP) — Agriculture Secretary Ezra Benson told the National Farm Institute today the administration's farm program would give farmers the "four freedoms" they want.

The liberties are "more freedom to plant, more freedom to market, more freedom to meet competition, more freedom from government interference," Benson said.

Key features of the farm program are larger acreage allotments for crops and price supports ranging from 80 to 90 percent of parity instead of 75 to 90 percent.

"Programs which are economically sound, administratively feasible and financially supportable simply do not flow from mixed formula calculations (rigid parity)," Benson said.

Benson addressed a lunch meeting of the 20th National Farm Institute, and annual meeting of national farm, industry and education leaders who spend two days exploring farm problems. The theme of the meeting this year is "Redirection of Agricultural Resources."

Benson said that the administration's farm program, now before Congress, was designed to "develop bigger markets, thus putting our abundance to good use."

"Allow farmers more freedom to use their productive resources. Push forward the necessary long-range conservation effort. Help the forgotten segment of agriculture, those people on small, low income farms."

Petitions to Close School Circulate

ARKADIA, (UP) — Petitions calling for a state-wide vote on a constitutional amendment providing for closing of schools in districts where integration is opposed were circulated here Wednesday night.

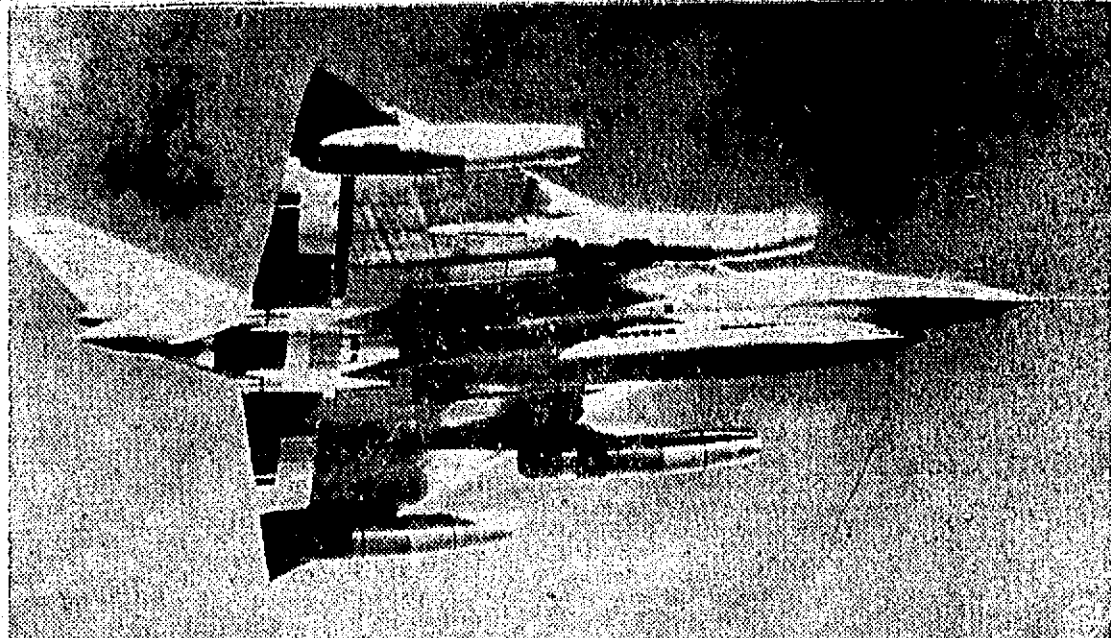

Former State Sen. James D. Johnson distributed the petitions at a Citizens Council meeting.

Johnson drew up the constitutional amendment designed to help enforce segregation. Wednesday, Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett approved the popular ballot title, "States Rights Amendment."

Johnson at first proposed a catch-all amendment which included clauses concerning the number of appointments the governor may make in the Highway Department. Earlier this week he withdrew all portions save those concerning segregation.

DEPENDS ON THE MOON

NEW YORK (UP) — Patrolman Harry Reinhardt, about to retire from his post in the city's Times Square information booth, had this to say about his customers: "Every second customer is a nut. When it's a full moon, the nuts are the worst offenders. When it's a new moon, the nuts are the best."

PROBABLY THE LONGEST — An Air Force B-58 Hunter bomber flew faster than sound for more than an hour and a half during a recent test mission, officials at Convair in Fort Worth have disclosed. Propaganda From Moscow Blow to U. S.

WASHINGTON (UP) — Vicious anti-American propaganda coming from Moscow on the Tunisian crisis has struck a hard blow at U. S. hopes for a "profitable" East-West summit conference, officials said today.

Soviet charges that the United States "master-minded" the French air attack on a Tunisian village, these officials said, have strengthened the position of policy makers who doubt the Russians sincerely want to ease East-West tensions.

President Eisenhower will have a chance soon to make this point when he replies to Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin's latest letter on a possible meeting of East-West government heads. The President's letter is slated to be sent to North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries for review "very soon."

Seldom has the State Department given vent publicly to such anger as it did Thursday over charges printed in the Soviet Communist newspaper Pravda. Pravda claimed the United States was behind the attack on the village of Sakiet-Sidi-Youssef.

The State Department labelled the charges "lies" and "outrageous allegations." A spokesman said the accusations "do not square" with the words of peace and friendship being spread around Washington by the new Soviet ambassador, Mikhail A. Menshikov.

Menshikov said he hadn't heard of either the Pravda charges or the State Department statement. Interpreted by newsmen during a series of State Department talks, he said only, "I don't think it is correct" to accuse the Soviet Union of hypocrisy in its foreign policy.

The Russian ambassador continued his whirling calls on American officials, exuding warmth and friendship and expressing a desire to "visit all the states."

U. S. to Help With Puerto Rico Defense

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UP) — Assistant Secretary of Defense Murray Snyder disclosed today that top Defense Department officials will fly to Puerto Rico Feb. 21 to discuss a reorganization of the department.

Snyder said they would remain there until Feb. 24 for a weekend of complete application of the problem of Defense Department organization. They will fly from Washington to Ramey Air Force Base on the island.

Wants to Buy Equipment for the ASC

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Agriculture Department has recommended that about 1,000 county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committees buy mechanical equipment costing an average of $3,500 per installation.

A department spokesman said tests have shown that the mechanical equipment will pay for itself within a year to 18 months. The spokesman emphasized that purchase of equipment is not mandatory. But the department recommends it on grounds of economy.

The equipment consists of an addressograph machine and appliances to be used in the processing of various forms which the department's Commodity Stabilization Service prepares for the acreage allotment and marketing quota programs. The ASC committee administers at local levels the CSS programs.

The spokesman, who works in the administrative services division, said the mechanical equipment will be of value in county offices which handle about 2,000 acreage allotments. For those with 10,000 or more, more than 2,000 allotments, the department recommends additional equipment which would make the total installation cost about $4,300.

The total cost to the government, the spokesman said, would be about $3,500,000 to $3,750,000 if 1,000 county offices buy the equipment.

The spokesman said there was no outside pressure on the department to recommend purchase of the equipment. He said the decision to make the recommendation was made administratively.

'Disturbed' Persons Less Intelligent

Science Today

By DELOS SMITH

United Press Science Editor

NEW YORK (UP) — The much-disputed question of whether mentally disturbed people are more or less intelligent than mentally stable people, has had a new answer which is that they're less intelligent.

This is counter to a widely held opinion among psychiatrists that, generally speaking, neurotics, particularly and even many psychotics are superior to simple, intelligent people.

The new answer comes from a statistical comparison of the intelligence test scores of a number of men who were discharged from the Army during World War II for psychiatric reasons, with the scores of men who had no recorded emotional difficulties with Army authority.

The comparisons were made by John B. Miner and James E. Anderson, psychologists, for the conservation of human resources project of Columbia University.

Some of the support for psychological theories that the mentally disturbed often rate superior in intelligence comes from historical examples. For instance, Napoleon hardly was a paragon of mental stability, and there are notable examples among scientists and other intellectuals, some of whom had mental breakdowns.

But the new statistics showed that before there was any question of future mental breakdown, some World War II inductees who were generally lower in intelligence than those who would not break down.

By extending their studies to records of the veterans bureau, the scientists also were able to show that the pre-breakdown intelligence of men who later became severely and chronically disturbed was below that of individuals who recovered from severe disturbances.

Recalls Efforts
Miner and Anderson recalled previous statistical efforts to answer the question. Some of these gave a yes answer, some gave no. They felt this contradiction was due to the distracting elements which enter into neurotic and psychotic thinking and prevent a really accurate measurement by psychological tests of simple intelligence.

In reporting to the American Psychological Association, they said that "strictly speaking" the results could apply only to the men studied—those who were inducted into the Army during the last four months of 1942. But the results can be applied "with some degree of confidence" to all who served in the Army, and "similar results" probably would be obtained if you made the same study of the whole U. S. population, they said.

Johnson's Manager to Run for Senate

LITTLE ROCK (UP) — Phil

Stratton, a Crossett businessman who managed the 1956 gubernatorial campaign of former Sen. James D. Johnson, Wednesday filed his candidacy for state senator representing the 22nd district.

The 22nd district, which takes in Ashley and Chicot counties, is currently represented by Sen. Gailher C. Johnston of Dermott.

Stratton said he felt Johnson did not want to run for reelection but "certain elements" were pushing him. Stratton said this was in violation of a 60-year-old "gentleman's agreement" stipulating that the two southeast Arkansas counties alternate in providing the district's senatorial candidates.

Engineers Fight the Ice Choked Mississippi

ST. LOUIS (UP) — A wintry battle against ice was being waged today by the Coast Guard Cutter Foxglove and two Army vessels seeking to mark the Mississippi River channel between Cairo, Ill., and here.

The U. S. Army Engineers Corps sent its powerful channel patrol boat, Pathfinder, to aid the Foxglove fighting to cut through giant size ice cubes near Cairo. The Army tugboat Crane was assigned to the Cape Girardeau area to replace buoys marking the channel which have been swept away by ice.

Col. Charles B. Schweizer, district engineer, said some commercial tows reaching Cape Girardeau have run aground along unbayed reaches. Others were being "talked through" in much the same manner as an airplane flying blind is "talked in" to a safe landing, he said.

A light ice condition at Cairo was described by Capt. Fred P. Vetterick, commander of the 2nd Coast Guard District. He said presently high stages on the Ohio River have retarded the current velocity in the nearby Mississippi. Heavy flows of ice were hampering work to replace buoys there, he added.

U. S. Helped British With Its Missile

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Defense Department said today the United States helped Britain develop a ballistic rocket the British call "more advanced" than America's own intermediate range ballistic missiles.

A British government spokesman released Thursday acknowledged that the United States had aided in the project resulting in a new rocket which can be fired from underground launching sites.

A Pentagon spokesman called the British missile "an example of the kind of mutual weapons development collaboration we think is so important."

He said the British had been given access to American development through a joint U. S.-United Kingdom scientific advisory group set up following talks here last year between then Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson and British Defense Minister Duncan Sandys.

The British also said the two countries have concluded an agreement to station U. S. IRBMs—capable of spanning the 1,500 miles from London to Moscow—at four launching sites in Britain. It said details will be announced next Wednesday.

The Pentagon spokesman said the United States had given "certain information and instrumentation" to Britain and established "firm-to-firm" cooperation between U. S. and British companies working on missiles.

Fr. Smith Plant to Be Expanded

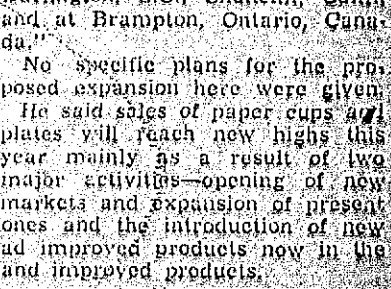

FORT SMITH (UP) — Expansion of the Dixie Cup plant here is planned for this year, Eason, Pa., headquarters said Wednesday.

C. L. Van Schaijk, vice president of the American Cup company and executive head of the Dixie Cup division, said the Fort Smith plant was included in the company's over-all expansion program planned for this year.

"Dixie's confidence in the future of paper products," he said, "will be shown in 1958 by opening a new $9,000,000 plant at Lexington, Ky., and expansion of facilities and factories at Fort Smith, Ariz., and at Brampton, Ontario, Canada."

No specific plans for the proposed expansion here were given. He said sales of paper cups and plates will reach new highs this year mainly as a result of two major activities—opening of new markets and expansion of present ones and the introduction of new and improved products.

Section 11. That all bonds paid, either at or before maturity, shall be cancelled when such payment is made, together with all unmaturing coupons attached thereto, and held by the Treasurer. All unpaid interest coupons maturing on or prior to the date of such payment shall continue to be payable to the respective bearer thereof.

Section 12. That the bonds authorized hereby and issued hereunder shall be callable for payment prior to maturity in accordance with the terms set out in the bond form in Section 5 hereof.

That it shall be the duty of the Treasurer to withdraw from the Gas Transmission and Distribution Revenue Bond Fund at least five (5) days before the maturity date of any bond or interest coupon issued hereunder and to deposit with the Paying Agent an amount equal to the amount of such bond or coupon for the sole purpose of paying the same, together with the Paying Agent's fee of one-half of one percent (1/2%) on each $100 of principal of the bonds and 5¢ for each coupon, with the minimum payment to be $5.00, and no withdrawal of funds from said Gas Transmission and Distribution Revenue Bond Fund shall be made for any other purpose except as otherwise authorized in this ordinance. Such deposit shall be at the sole risk of the City and shall not operate as a payment of the bonds or coupons until so applied.

Section 11. That all bonds paid, either at or before maturity, shall be cancelled when such payment is made, together with all unimpressed coupons appertaining thereto, and held by the Treasurer. All unpaid interest coupons maturing on or prior to the date of such payment shall continue to be payable to the respective bearer thereof.

Section 12. That the bonds authorized hereby and issued hereunder shall be callable for payment prior to maturity in accordance with the terms set out in the bond form in Section 5 hereof.

Section 13. That the City will keep proper books of accounts and records (separate from all other records and accounts) in which complete and correct entries shall be made of all transactions relating to the gas transmission lines and distribution system. The City will furnish to any holder or purchaser of any of the bonds at the time of making the purchase, or upon request of such holder or purchaser, not more than sixty (60) days after the date of such request, complete copies of its records and accounts relating to its revenues from the gas transmission lines and distribution system covering such fiscal year, certified by a certified public accountant.

Section 14. That there shall be a statutory mortgage lien upon the gas transmission lines and distribution system described herein, including the real property on which they are situated, as provided in Act No. 71 of the Acts of the General Assembly of the State of Arkansas for the year 1949, as amended, which shall exist in favor of the holder of the bonds and each of them, and to and in favor of the holder of the coupons attached to the bonds, and the gas transmission lines and distribution system shall remain subject to such statutory mortgage lien until payment in full of the principal of and interest on the bonds. If there be any default in the payment of either the principal or interest on any of the bonds, and such default shall continue for thirty (30) days thereafter, the holder or holders thereof may enforce the statutory mortgage lien upon the gas transmission lines and distribution system in accordance with the provisions of Section 11 of said Act No. 71 of 1949, as amended, and may by proper suit compel the performance of the duties of the officials of the City. If there be default in the payment of the principal or interest on the bonds, and such default shall continue for thirty (30) days thereafter, any court having jurisdiction in any proper action may appoint a receiver to administer the gas transmission lines and distribution system on behalf of the City, with power to charge and collect rates sufficient to provide for the payment of the bonds and interest thereon and for the payment of the operating expenses and to apply the income and revenues in conformity with this ordinance.

Section 15. That when the bonds herein authorized to be issued have been executed by the Mayor and Recorder and the seal of the City impressed, as herein provided, they shall be delivered to the Trustee Bank, which shall authenticate them and deliver them to the purchaser, on payment in cash of $210,500 and accrued interest to date of delivery. Contemporaneously with such delivery and payment, the said Bank shall apply the proceeds of the bonds as follows:

The proceeds shall be deposited in a bank that is a member of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation to be designated by the City Council in a trust fund secured by direct obligations of the United States or by a corporate surety bond, and disbursed by it solely in payment of the cost of construction of the gas transmission lines and distribution system, including the cost of securing necessary rights of way, engineering, legal and other expenses incidental to the construction and to the issuance of the bonds, but only on checks, warrants or vouchers signed by the Mayor and Recorder briefly specifying the disbursement of expenditure, accompanied by a certificate signed by the consulting engineer of such construction that an obligation in a stated amount has been incurred on account to the cost of construction, and to whom such obligation is owed, except that no such certificate shall be required for the payment of engineering, legal and other incidental expenses. Any unexpended balance remaining after the final completion of the construction shall be used to call bonds of this issue, as herein provided.

When the bonds are delivered to the said The First National Bank in Little Rock, Little Rock, Arkansas, the Mayor shall take from said Bank its receipts and an agreement to deliver the bonds and apply the proceeds as authorized in this Section 15.

Section 16. Bennett Against Fishing License

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—A recently adopted requirement that everyone over 16 have a license to fish from a river or creek bank with pole or worms is causing a hardship, Attorney General Bruce Bennett told the state Game and Fish Commission.

He sent a letter to Nelson Cox, executive secretary of the commission, asking it to reconsider the new rule.

"There are literally thousands of Arkansas citizens whose only recreation is periodic 'pole fishing' and undue hardship on them will be a reality if the regulation is continued," Bennett said.

The attorney general's office rules only on matters of law and whether the regulation is proper is a question of fact, Bennett said. He was not telling the commission what to do, he explained, but merely asking them to reconsider the regulation.

INVITATION ISSUED
PARK FALLS, Wis. (UP)—Dan Vicker, chairman of a homecoming celebration here, today invited the abominable snowman of the Himalayas to join the returning natives.

Vicker said the legendary snowman "originated at Park Falls, Wis. and migrated in the early days when we had a mild winter."

This winter, he said, should prove attractively "normal" to the abominable expatriate.

Section 19. That all ordinances or parts of ordinances in conflict herewith are hereby repealed to the extent of such conflict.

Section 20. That it is ascertained and declared that the lack of gas transmission lines and a distribution system for natural gas to serve the inhabitants of the City of Bleivins, Arkansas subjects the City to greater fire hazards and greatly endangers the life, health and property of the inhabitants thereof, and that it is necessary for the said City to immediately construct gas transmission lines and a distribution system for natural gas to protect and preserve the life, health and property of its inhabitants. It is, therefore, declared that an emergency exists and that immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

International News During Past Week

Foreign News Commentary
By CHARLES M. McCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent
The week's good and bad news on the international balance sheet:

It has long been known that the rebels in neighboring Algeria, who have fled down 500,000 French troops in a costly, frustrating campaign, were operating from bases on the Tunisian side of the border.

Fifteen times since last September, French military authorities reported, French Air Force planes had been fired on by heavy machine guns installed on the Tunisian administration building in Saker-Sidi-Youssef.

After the 15th attack the local French commander warned that the next one would bring retaliation. The 16th attack was made next day.

Twenty-five French planes were sent to attack "military objectives" in the village. But they hit targets of all kinds, including a school. Sixty-eight persons—men, women and children—were killed and 100 wounded.

Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba recalled his ambassador in France. He demanded that France remove the 20,000 to 25,000 troops it still has stationed in Tunisia. He asked for a meeting of the United Nations Security Council.

World opinion was shocked by the attack. The French government tried at first to minimize its seriousness. But the damage and the dead bodies constituted irrefutable evidence of its gravity.

Ugly as the incident was, it seemed possible that its ultimate effect would be beneficial—that it might bring a broad survey of the whole North African situation.

The Western Allies and Soviet Russia drew steadily closer to a "summit" conference on world issues at which resident Elsenhower would meet Soviet Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin and Communist leader Nikita S. Khrushchev.

The United States had insisted that a meeting of the Big Four foreign ministers—the United States, France, Great Britain and Russia must be held in advance to make sure that a summit conference would be useful.

Russia rejected the idea of such a preparatory meeting. To the astonishment of newspaper correspondents, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said at a press conference in Washington that a foreign ministerial meeting was not really necessary. In fact, that the United States never had insisted on such a meeting

EXCEPT THE LORD BUILD THE HOUSE THEY LABOR IN VAIN THAT BUILD IT

Luke 6:31

And as ye would that men should do to you, do ye also to them likewise

What do you really wish that men would do to you... leave you alone? Try it and you will have a lonely world... no home, no neighborhood, no church, no nation. Do you expect your employees to work for you while you forget their welfare. Do you wish others to deal kindly and generously with you? Do you demand that people be honest, truthful, and trustworthy with you? Would you rather others be courteous, and appreciative of you and lend a helping hand when you have a hard task to do? They who keep the Golden Rule will discover that it must work both ways. It is "the rule of God." In every land and in every age it is the basic rule for good living. One cannot improve on it. If you want Golden Rule treatment from others you must give Golden Rule treatment to them. It will work in the experiences of every man. It is the Divine Way. The Golden Rule is still very Golden.

YOU IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN YOU

Character is a by-product of the church. It is here that young and old alike are showered with benedictions that fortify and influence for a better citizenship and a stronger democracy. In the church the ministerial are molding religious character. Statesmen today declare that the church alone can furnish leadership to handle the affairs of state in these perilous times. They declare with our children should go to the church of our choice on Sunday. You in the Church and the Church in you form a combination for good. Be a regular CHURCH-GOER and a daily BIBLE READER.
